Wouldn't it be nice if they made pots and pains the way hospital rooms are now constructed—with rounded corners what a feet it would be not to have to go into those corners with saudsoap and cleansing rowder and dear knews what else, and still not be able to get them quite clean. A rubber sersper, you will find, will be a great help. It consists of a rubber disc extended to one of metal, held together on a black wooden handle. The rubber disc es so shaped that it fits nicely into the corners, and, re-enforced by the metal, it forms an excellent scraper. (me of these convenient little appliances may be had for ten cents.

Fashion Delights in Wool Jersey, Tricolette and Velveteen

Wool jersey in Autumn shades of brown, taupe and blue is in its most charming mood, forming new collarless models as well as frocks with self collars or collars of white satin. Skirts are either plain or have overskirts and many frocks show touches of braid trimming. $23.50 to $30. The dress that is sketched is $20.75.

Tricolette of the Graceful Lines We all acknowledge the material to be that with its easily given air of slender grace. The grace is well developed in dresses that are simply made on long lines with loose belts. The collars are of harmonizing satin where there are collars-but many of the frocks are collarless. $34.75 to $37.50. Dusky Shades of Velveteen

Black, navy blue and various tones of burgundy and beautifully soft in velveteen frocks. Some are quite simple, while others are rather elaborately trimmed with braid. Here, again, the collarless models mingle with those that have collars of satin or of the material. $23.25 to $45. (Market)

A wonderfully fine collection of Wilton rugs of high quality will be placed on sale tomorrow in the Down Stairs Store. So fine are the rugs and so proud are we that we emphatically state that this is one of the best rug purchases we have ever made.

The rugs were bought from a manufacturer of the highest standing, whose goods have stood the test of service right here on the floors of the Wanamaker Store. Every operation in the making of these rugsfrom the spinning of the yarns and their dyeing to the weaving of the rug itself-was done under expert supervision, and the result has been rugs of the finest quality.

But these rugs have become so expensive to manufacture, under present labor conditions, that their making has had to be discontinued for the present, and the mill has closed out to us all the stock on hand at much less than today's market prices would be.

The Savings Are Big

Take, for instance, the 9x12 size, which is a standard. The sale price is $69, the worth of that rug is $100 or more today. The savings on the other sizes are proportionate.

The Beauty and Durability of these rugs can hardly be overestimated. They are the heaviest wool Wiltons made, and the patterns are excellent. The colorings are soft and well blended and are appropriate for dining-rooms, living-rooms, libraries, entrance halls; in fact, for nearly every room in the house. Many of the patterns will be found splendid for offices, too, and you may be assured the rugs will stand the wear.
